To whom it may concern:

My group of companies have enjoyed a long term relationship with IDR not the least of which was a $350,000 renovation to the Kia store in Langley completed this past summer.

This renovation was very complex in that we were dealing with the possibility of a disruption to all departments of the store. Parts, Service and sales, as well as the back end lunch and locker area were all substantially improved.

The organized fashion in which IDR approached the project did a fantastic job of minimizing the impact on our day to day business. The extra efforts i.e. "hording" and staging of the various improvements made all the difference.

The other benefit in dealing with IDR is that the dreaded surprises that can occur with this type of reno were nonexistent.

We would have no problem recommending IDR to anyone; we have found them to be Organized, Efficient and Tidy. Don and his team really make it easy.

Incidentally and perhaps the best testimonial is the fact we are about to embark on another project with them roughly double the size of the last one.

Sincerely,
